CPR OFFICIALS START DAILY TRIP PLANNING

U.S. Threatened By Red Subs

WASHINGTON (AP)—United States naval chiefs believe the possibility of a surprise Russian submarine attack on the United States is very great and merits great concern, it was disclosed yesterday.

In a censored version of secret testimony made public Saturday, Admiral Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, said forces are at sea all the time, "searching up and down both coasts" for enemy submarines. His testimony was given before the Senate disarmament subcommittee on Jan. 30.

Burke said there is no way to guarantee that an attack will not get through.

"There is no equipment that can guarantee that there is not a submarine at a particular spot in the ocean except in a very small area, and even then you cannot guarantee that you have got it," he added.

On the other hand, Burke said, the Russians have an even tougher problem since the United States could cover "all but a very small part of Russia from launching positions at sea."

He said that the free world controls the ocean, "and we operate over the ocean all the time" while the Russians are "concentrated in one place."

Burke did not dispute statements that the Russians have about 250 long-range submarines. He said the Russians may have balistic missile subs now, but he did not think they have "very many."

Burke said the first of the new nuclear-powered, missile-launching Polaris submarines is expected to be in full operation by the fall of 1960, to be followed by others at the rate of three a year.

Burke told the senators that no matter, how many underground shelters the Soviet Union might build, in a general nuclear war from 20 to 40 per cent of their people "would die in an all-out hydrogen bomb attack."

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey suggested the United States would have a difficult time making a missile attack on the Soviet Union except on "the Pacific coast, that is Siberia and Vladivostok."

Things Brighter —Dowell

Winter ferry service between Victoria and Vancouver appears certain on a "one-a-day" basis following consultation between CPR president N. R. Crump and B.C. Attorney-General Robert Bonner yesterday.

CPR officials from Vancouver and Victoria, including Pacific region vice-president J. N. Fraine, were to leave today or tomorrow for talks with the company president on a reprieve deal for Victoria.

ROUND TRIP DAILY

One round trip daily winter service between Vancouver and Victoria would be established as a result of the review, unofficial reports said last night.

Anticipated reprieve from the ferry "death sentence" brought optimistic comment from civic officials and slowed plans of Mayor Percy Scurrah and Acting Mayor Arth. Dowell to fly east for a Tuesday meeting with Mr. Crump.

DOUBTFUL NOW

"It's doubtful if we will go now that things look so much brighter," Mr. Dowell said last night. "I'd be surprised if we don't get the one-a-day boat service."

He said he and Mayor Scurrah, vacationing in Palm Springs, had reservations to fly east Monday, but that Mayor Scurrah had been advised by Mr. Crump in a wire not to "interrupt his (Mayor Scurrah's) holiday."

LEAVE TODAY

Newspaper publisher Stuart Keate, named as spokesman for the Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee and Chamber of Commerce ways and means representative, said he would leave today for the appointment with Mr. Crump, Tuesday, "whether the others go or not."

"I think this would be a good time to make a representation —while the matter is under review—" he said last night.

Attorney-General Bonner said Mr. Crump agreed to take a second look at the company's decision with a view to "avoiding disruption" of services.

CONTACT HIM

He said the president will contact him here "during the first two or thre days of this week" after going into the matter fully with CPR officials summoned from the West Coast.

Another report, quoting informed sources in the capital, said Mr. Bonner indicated the cut-back ferry service probably will be extended for as long as two years.

The report, carried by United Press International wire service, said the attorney-general gave a strong impression to that effect to four B.C. MP's at an informal lunch in the parliamentary restaurant yesterday.

Conservatives John Taylor (Vancouver-Burrard), Ernest Broome (Vancouver South), Walter Henderson (Cariboo) and William McLennan (New Westminster) attended the luncheon.

Mr. Bonner leaves Ottawa by air this morning for Victoria where he will report to the legislature Monday.

His trip included discussions with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and various cabinet ministers as well as Mr. Crump.

Dulles' Cancer Dismays West

LONDON (AP) — The news that John Foster Dulles has cancer sent surprise and dismay through western European capitals Saturday night.

plated the prospect of dealing with a new United States secretary of state—and possibly one with different views—at a time when western Europe faces grave issues.

In West Germany there was foreboding that Dulles' disappearance from the diplomatic scene might lose Chancellor Konrad Adenauer a strong ally.

About three months remains before expiration of the Soviet ultimatum for a Western withdrawal from Berlin.

The news was telephoned to Prime Minister Harold Macmillan at the Chequers country house where he was in conference with Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd on their forthcoming trip to Moscow.

"They received the news with great regret," a spokesman reported.

French Premier Michel Debre expressed sadness at the illness.

Word of Dulles' illness was reported in Moscow Saturday night and broadcast over radio Moscow's domestic service.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic and Republican congressional leaders joined Saturday in expressing hope that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will respond to radiation treatment and be able to return quickly to his desk.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Christian A. Herter, United States undersecretary of state, said Saturday he would accept the job of secretary of state if President Eisenhower offered it to him. (See page 5.)

WASHINGTON (AP)—John Foster Dulles has cancer of undetermined extent.

But he will continue as United States State Secretary on leave of absence while undergoing treatment, President Eisenhower said.

A medical bulletin ruled out immediate surgery. It said radiation therapy will be used. It added that Dulles was in good spirits.

The diagnosis, based on laboratory tests, came 27 hours after Dulles had been operated on for a groin hernia.

Tissue and fluid removed during Friday's hernia operation were found to be cancerous.

'Agents' Caught Say Reds

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet news agency Tass charged today that seven "groups of agents" of the United States and Turkey parachuted recently onto Soviet territory from Turkey.

The news agency said that the "agents" had been captured.

Tass quoted a statement by the committee of state security, published in the government newspaper Izvestia, saying that "weapons, cameras, binoculars, compasses, special pliers for cutting barbed wire on the frontier and other spy equipment, as well as large sums of Soviet money" were taken from those arrested.

Racket Lenders Probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate labor-management committee said Saturday it has evidence that loans from a New York lending company have been used to finance some of the leading figures in narcotics and gambling rackets.

Chief counsel Robert F. Kennedy announced the committee will explore the allegations in hearings this week.

He declined to name in advance either the lending company, the big coin machine operator he pictured as its dominant figure, or the underworld characters who got into the loans.

Man Pulled Out

Car Crashes, Catches Fire

A blood-spattered girl accident victim staggered more than 100 yards for help after a car making a wrong turn piled into an asphalt pile in the Saanich municipal yards early today and burst into flame.

One of the occupants was dragged unconscious from the blazing wreckage by police.

All four victims were taken to hospital after police and firemen were summoned to the scene near the intersection of Douglas and Saanich Road.

UNCONSCIOUS

Two victims were unconscious and two badly cut when they arrived at hospital, police said.

By press time, all four were in satisfactory condition.

Police said driver of the car was Kenneth Nuttall, 852 Darwin. Passengers were identified as his wife, Astrid, and Harry Keith Lawrence, 29 Logan, and his wife Tess.

Police and firemen were called to the scene from the home of Mrs. Geraldine Wilson, 3476 Saanich Road, after the injured girl pounded on the door and cried out "please call an ambulance."

Mrs. Wilson said the girl was covered with blood.

Bloodstains on the door jamb indicated the girl had tried to ring the door bell first, but it was out of order, Mrs. Wilson said.

FIRE STARTS

Witnesses said the car "bubbled" into flame a few minutes after it plowed into the huge asphalt pile at the side of the lane leading into the yard.

Residents said the crash sounded like a heavy door slamming.

A rear seat passenger, knocked unconscious by the impact, was still in the blazing car when Saanich police arrived. One of his shoes was found still in the car after the blaze was put out.

NOT FIRST TIME

The lane turns north off Saanich Road at the intersection where Short Street meets Saanich Road. Neighbors said cars "often" turned into the lane.

"There should be a gate there," said Mrs. S. R. Manuel, 867 Seymour, whose home is near the accident scene. "I always thought something like this would happen. Now maybe they will put up a gate."

Glen Merriman, a visitor at the Wilson home, said he phoned for an ambulance, then ran outside and heard the car engine roaring. He drove his car down to turn headlights on the accident to guide firemen.

Police arrived at the same moment.

Merriman said flames flared up from the hood of the car and "a man struggled out of the right side of the car."

Windshield of the car was smashed on the right side and the steering wheel broken off.

Union To Sue Premier

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Canadian president H. Landon Ladd of the International Woodworkers of America (CLC) said Saturday night his union is taking action to prosecute Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland for unfair labor practices and to sue the premier for defamation.

Mr. Ladd said, in a radio broadcast, the union's lawyer James Green has been authorized to seek permission to prosecute the premier under labor legislation and to sue him for $100,000 damages.

In a radio and television broadcast Thursday Premier Smallwood urged Newfoundland loggers to abandon the IWA and form a new union with provincial government assistance. Some 1,200 IWA members are on strike against the Anglo-Newfoundland Corporation.

Mr. Ladd said the defamation suit is based on part of the premier's speech in which he said "how dare these outsiders come into this decent Christian province and by such desperate, such terrible methods try to seize control of our province's main industry.

"How dare they come in here and spread their black poison of class hatred and bitter, bigoted prejudice."

Mr. Ladd said the premier "mentioned outsiders, which can only be myself and three of my staff."

Official Warning

Beware 'Flu, Smallpox!

By TOM GREEN

Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—National health and welfare minister J. Waldo Monteith cautioned Canadians Saturday to be on guard against the possible spread of smallpox and influenza now reaching serious proportions in Europe and Asia.

He suggested two measures as safeguards against the diseases: 1. Adequate immunization to ward off smallpox. 2. Regular health steps to combat 'flu.

Mr. Monteith noted Canada hasn't had a smallpox case since 1946. But despite this fine record, he pointed out that the disease could spread to Canada due to modern methods of transportation.

Federal health department regulations call for a careful check of visitors to Canada. All arrivals from abroad must present a certificate of vaccination, but despite these precautions, the disease could still reach Canada, Mr. Monteith said.

Mr. Monteith said in respect to the 'flu that the serum provided by the federal government two years ago to combat Asian 'flu would not necessarily be suitable for the current outbreak.

The best action to take, he said, was to follow regular health rules. This meant getting plenty of rest, dressing properly and avoiding crowds as much as possible.

Decision Already Taken

Arrow Doomed To Be Dropped

By Colonist Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — There is every indication that the Diefenbaker government will withdraw its support of the CF-105 jet fighter, the Arrow, on March 31.

The federal administration is of the same mind today as it was last September when it was on the verge of writing off the Arrow.

What it did then was grant a reprieve until March 31, but clearly indicated that it had in mind the ditching of the costly interceptor program.

The formal decision will have to be made in the next six or seven weeks, and indications are that it won't be made or announced until the deadline is reached since circumstances in the meantime could conceivably influence it, although nothing of this nature is anticipated.

Some Conservatives are now talking about means of pinning responsibility for the $400,000,000 to $500,000,000 development outlay on the Liberals who began the project shortly after the Korean hostilities.

Crisis Eased On Wabash

WEST TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — The Wabash River's crucial flood crest came and passed here and a huge ice jam began crumbling Saturday, easing the big double crisis on the storied river.
